

Living in a house

- everyone who lives there is in your family
- the hallways and the outside areas all belong to your family
- you don't need to worry about noise
- no one lives below or above you
- you have a lot of privacy

Living in an apartment

- you don't know everyone who lives in the building- some people are strangers
- the hallways and outside areas are shared with everyone
- people live above and below you and can hear you if you are loud
- you need to close the windows and blinds for privacy
